“15 per cent non-refundable tax credit is available on qualified SR&ED expenditures. Unincorporated businesses, individuals, and certain trusts have access to a 15 per cent partially refundable tax credit on qualified SR&ED expenditures.”

“An eligible Canadian public corporation would be eligible for the enhanced 35-per-cent tax credit rate on up to $4.5 million of qualifying SR&ED expenditures annually. Access to the $4.5 million expenditure limit for any given tax year would be phased out based on a corporation's gross revenue.”

“The Clean Electricity investment tax credit is a refundable credit equal to 15 per cent of the capital cost of eligible investments in equipment related to low-emitting electricity generation, electricity storage, and the transmission of electricity between provinces and territories.”

CRA (fund the apparent R&D) → SR&ED (CRA benefit program to fund) → build the tech (payment for tech in hand) → ISED (government funding to pay for stolen prototype, validation and IP) → pay fees to large group of gang stalkers to target victims → create licensable intellectual property → “create” / steal intellectual property and sell at a large profit → sell company and maintain ownership of core stolen assets
