FAQ

In what format do your products come?

We have several formats and packages, bulk and boxes of 1 and 2 kg, and smaller formats for sale to the final consumer. Contact us, and we will detail all the options we have for sale.

Is the quality the same as a fresh product?

Nutritionally, frozen seafood retains almost all of its value. Freezing prevents germs and enzymes from decomposing the food because most bacteria stop acting at -15 degrees Celsius. This guarantees microbiological quality without losing taste, texture, or nutrients such as proteins, fats, vitamins, and minerals. In other words, frozen seafood has fewer bacteria while maintaining the same nutrients as fresh.

Where do your shellfish and fish come from? Where are they from?

Our product comes from various origins, always sourced from the best fishing grounds through sustainable practices on the Pacific and Caribbean coasts. Additionally, we farm shrimp at our Chinandega location.

What expiration date does the product have?

Our products do not expire per se, but have a preferential consumption time of 24 months from freezing.
